

There are so many voices in our world telling us that our first priority should be ourselves. We are constantly trained to focus on our own pleasure, or security, or health, or beauty. John's story reminds us that abundant life is found not when we focus on ourselves, but when we give ourselves to something bigger, and when we use our lives as signposts to point beyond ourselves to God's Reign of love and justice. How can you live as a signpost that points beyond your own concerns and dreams to those of Christ today? (Sacredise Daily Worship)
